Protect the Water Meter Readers from Dog Bites

Dogs that are normally friendly can become protective if they perceive a threat to their owners. So please help protect our meter readers by taking the following steps:

* Keep your dog inside or restrained. Your water meter is read every other month during the months of February, April, June, August, October and December and is generally within a few days from the previous billing cycle reading dates.

* If your dog is inside, use caution when opening the door and do not allow a child to open the door or your dog may be able to charge the meter reader.

* If you chain your dog in the yard, ensure that the dog is restrained away from the water meter convenience readout (small black box on outside wall).

Use the proper chain weight and anchor it securely into the ground.

* Notify North Middleton Authority if you install an invisible fence on your property. Without a visible fence or a posted sign to alert them of a dog's presence, meter readers may be caught off-guard.
